What makes a

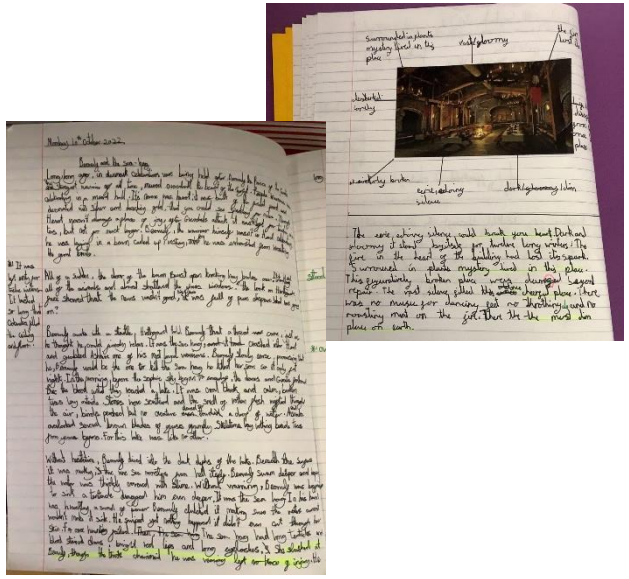
Fourfields

Writer?

Can write for a variety of purposes.

Can recognise different word classes.

Can write effectively for their audience.

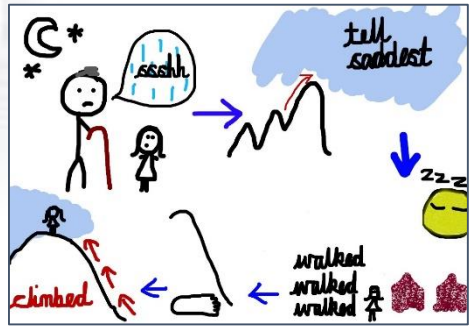


Has an extensive vocabulary which enhances their writing.

Selects appropriate grammar and punctuation to ensure the meaning in their writing.

Can use phonics knowledge to spell words accurately.

Enjoys high quality texts as models for their own writing.



Can write fluently with joined and legible handwriting.